

2019 ECL2 Q-PULSE USER'S CONFERENCE...Another Exciting Year!

Please join us for another very exciting ECL2 Q-Pulse User's Conference. Once again, our friends from across the pond will be returning. Paul Callaghan, the Senior Product Manager for Ideagen will present the Q-Pulse RoadMap. Paul has been with Ideagen and previously Gael from the very beginnings of Q-Pulse. Don't miss your opportunity to talk with him at this year's conference. Paul Marshall, Director of Sales, whom some of you met last year is also returning. Paul will be showing us a live demo of Q-Pulse V7. Many of you have been waiting for this release. 2019 will be a big year with all the modules available on the web.

This year's conference will also include numerous presentations from your peers on a wide variety of topics. You'll hear about managing Advisory and Governing Board processes via Q-Pulse. One of our newest Q-Pulse clients will talk about what they did to quickly engage their staff and get up and running. While we know that many of you are using Q-Pulse to track your credentialing, hear from one of your peers about how they are doing it. You'll also hear about a unique way to use the Audit Module to improve the quality management investigation process. These are just a few of the client presentations you'll hear this year.

Many of you were very excited about Risk last year. We'll dive deeper into Risk showing you how linking it to Q-Pulse closes the loop and keeps your staff engaged on a daily basis.

You'll also hear about the new Academy. We'll show you how to create your own courses; or if you already have courses of your own, we can show you how to upload them into the Academy linking them back to your Q-Pulse Training Plans. As always, we'll include presentations on getting the most out of your data analytics, helpful reports and many other Q-Pulse topics. It's a packed agenda.

If you are planning to come early...this year we are offering a few Q-Pulse refresher classes, the day before the main conference begins. We encourage you to take advantage of this opportunity. See you in April!
